1 Financial Leadership Activities: Where to Start

Introduction

At the core of any Career and Technical Student Organization (CTSO) is a list of activities and goals the organization wants to accomplish. This list is known as the Program of Work. While this list may contain community service projects, leadership activities, social events and competitive events, it may be useless without one critical ingredient: money. Without funding, most student activities would never happen.

But on the flip side, when you mention the word “fundraising,” instead of eliciting shouts of joy, you’ll more than likely receive glassy stares and groans of agony.

So it’s time to cast off the term “fundraising” and engage your CTSO in a “financial leadership activity”! What gets lost in most fundraising efforts are the other positive benefits (besides money) that it creates. In addition to helping to finance the local chapter, a financial leadership activity can also provide many valuable learning experiences for students. From project management to forecasting profits, setting timelines, working in teams and being accountable for results, a financial leadership activity helps teach many skills that will be needed on the job and in life.

There are many ways you can raise funds for your chapter, from weekly donut or pizza sales to an annual health fair, car show, mulch sale, flea market, art show and other annual events. You can also team up with an established company to sell their products using their products and marketing materials. By implementing a financial leadership activity, you can incorporate the skills students are learning as well as opportunities for them to work with business partners and other adults, reinforcing skills being developed in the classroom.

Where do you start?

The chapter officers should work with the advisor to determine a budget for the school year to cover the costs of chapter activities, travel to competitions, official attire or contest uniforms, curriculum, equipment or other chapter materials. Next, the officers and advisor should determine what portion of the budget can be provided through student payment, a student activity fee or other source of funding. The balance can then be raised through implementing financial leadership activities. It's a good idea to review the organization's budget with the principal or other school official to ensure that it aligns with school policy and procedure.

When talking with administration, be sure to differentiate your activity from the standard run-of-the-mill fundraisers by focusing on how it addresses the various leadership components. You may be surprised at the response you get.

Student participation is important in the management of money raised for their benefit. Ideas should be approved by the whole chapter and funds raised should benefit students currently in the chapter or program.

Financial Leadership Activity Checklist

- Obtain a copy of your school policy regarding fundraising
- Brainstorm ways to raise funds
- Request approval of any contracts for goods or services
- Be familiar with any school insurance available to protect against liability
- Inventory merchandise to be sure you received what was ordered
- Check with companies for their return policy of any unsold goods
- Require strict accounting of all funds handled
- Provide adult supervision for all financial leadership activities
- Establish clear timelines and deadlines for the activity
- Have students organize work teams so a few students don't do all of the work
- Plan for safety and monitor safe work practices during all activities
- Employ a code of conduct for students who are participating
- Have students implement good financial procedures
- Assign one or two people to handle all receipts, expenditures and accounting
- Establish deadlines for any money to be turned in
- Require receipts for any chapter purchases
- Require two signatures on checks if your CTSO chapter has a checking account

2 Ideas

Sometimes what to do for a financial leadership activity is as difficult as knowing where to begin. Here is a list of some of the activities that have been used by DECA, FBLA/PBL, FCCLA, FFA, HOSA, SkillsUSA, and TSA.

Rent-Some-Muscle

These activities require physical labor on the part of your CTSO's members, but all are good ways to work in your community.

- Shovel snow, do yard work, rake leaves, plant flowers for donations
- Wash and wax cars
- Ask a local business to match funds raised through a car wash held in a corner of its parking lot.
- Change snow tires on cars/perform fluid checks/air pressure checks for donations
- Build small storage sheds/green houses for the community
- Build benches for school hallways and commons
- House cleaning for donations

Events

These are some ideas for events you can hold with your CTSO chapter. Some involve the school, some the community, but all involve fun!

- Host a Dog Wash (like a car wash but for the puppies!)
- Hold a Battle of the Bands
- Hold a Cutest Dog/Ugliest Dog beauty pageant
- Pumpkin Carving Event / Carving Contest
- Host a Fashion Show – For business attire, prom wear, or for fun – most creative recycled clothing, or for clothes made from paper or duct tape
- Trick or Treating for Donations – members of your CTSO can dress in work attire and trick-or-treat for donations.
- Host a Haunted House/Forest
- Host a Texas Hold-Em Tournament
- Host a Casino night
- Sponsor a dodgeball or basketball tournament (e.g., students vs. teachers)
 - Host a 5K Fun Run

- Host a talent show
- Host a Student/Parent Baseball/Softball game
- Host a Cook-Off (Best BBQ, Best Chili, etc.)
- Sponsor a Sports Tournament
- Host a Potato Bake
- Host a Pancake Breakfast
- Host a Spaghetti Dinner
- Sponsor or take part in the Homecoming Carnival
- Host a Pie-in-the-Face/Dunk Tank booth/event
- Sponsor a Benefit Dinner (20+ Plates and Keynote/Comedic Speaker)
- Host a Silent Auction with donations from local businesses
- Host a Bowl-a-Thon
- Sponsor a Hat Day/Pajama Day/Casual Clothes Day – Students pay a fee to wear a hat or their PJs
- Host a Business or Leadership conference
- Host a Community Garage Sale with proceeds to benefit your chapter
- Conduct a Penny War – Pennies count for you, silver and paper count against you (pennies = 1 point, nickels = -5 points, dimes = -10, etc.) Winner gets a pizza party, ice cream social, etc.
- Host a walk-a-thon, dance marathon or a lock-in
- Host a bowl-a-thon
- Host a Charity Ball, a Sock-Hop, Halloween Party or Masquerade Ball

- Host a Bike Race/Run/Walk
- Host a Crazy Hair Day
- Host a Golf Tournament where businesses sponsor individual holes
- Host a Goofy Golf Tournament where activities include teeing off a saddle, putting with a pool cue, teeing with the opposite hand and teeing-off while standing in a tire.
- Hold a magazine sale
- Host a dance at local feeder schools to boost interest in organization

Different Ideas

Here are some “off the wall” ideas that may give a special spark to your activity!

- Couch Potato Raffle/Armchair Quarterback Raffle – Put a couch at the 50 yard line of a local school football game and raffle off these VIP seats.
- Hold a “Principal for a Day” or “Teacher for a Day” raffle
- Offer a Dinner and Play Package with the school’s theatre program or community theatre
- A Flocking! A Flocking of Flamingos! Put dozens of plastic flamingos all over someone’s yard along with a note that says for a small fee these flamingos could relocate to another yard of their choice. A variation could include placing strange items (like a brightly colored toilet - clean of course) in someone's office, or having a farm animal (like a pig) pay a visit.

- Date auction
- Sleep In Event
- Finals Care Packages – send a letter to parents asking them to purchase a “CARE” package with goodies to get their student through finals.
- Raffle off Valentines Day Weekend Package (a donation from a local hotel)
- Create and sell a cookbook from teachers/students favorite recipes
- Host a BYOBanana (Ice Cream Social)
- Sponsor athletic event half-time activities (free throw contest, field goal contest, three-point contest, etc.)
- Host A Luau! Sell Hawaiian-themed items in school colors
- Conduct a Letter Writing Campaign
- Sponsor a matching gift program with local businesses
- Host a Poverty/hunger awareness week event
- Host a “Dress the Principal” Day
- Get sponsors to donate for every point scored in the local game
- Write a class storybook and sell copies
- Host an Ugly Tie Contest
- Host a Karaoke Night
- Host a “Teachers Turkey Day.”
Students pay for paper feathers that teachers pin on and wear for the day. The teacher with the most feathers wins a prize.
- Sponsor a telethon to raise money for a project that will benefit the whole school or community.
- Biggest Turkey Teacher - Get five teachers to agree to compete to wear a turkey costume the entire day before Thanksgiving break if he/she were voted the Biggest Turkey Teacher. Tickets (votes) sell for $0.25 each or 5 tickets for $1.00.
- “Tape a Coach” to the school flagpole and have the students donate money to have their “favorite” coach duct taped to the flagpole during lunch.
- “Pucker Up and Kiss the Pig” has students vote which teacher they’d like to “kiss a pig” by dropping spare change and put it in a jar for that teacher. The one with the most money had to “Pucker up and Kiss the Pig” in front of the student body at an assembly.
- Pie in the Eye has teachers and students compete who can raise more money and winners get to hit the loser in the face with a cream pie.
- Stash for Cash - Male students take a month to grow mustaches to raise money. Like a walk-a-thon but instead of walking, you grow a ‘stache!

Services

Besides performing heavy-duty work for the school or community, there are some alternative services your chapter could provide to raise funds. Here are a few:

- Before a school dance, host a beauty salon for hair, nails, makeup
- Conduct a bottle drive / collect aluminum cans
- Create programs for school events, charge for service or sell ads (see below)
- Santa Ideas
 - Rent a Santa
 - Visiting Santa
 - Breakfast with Santa
 - Picture with Santa
- Window/Door Decorating (Homecoming/Holidays)
- Sell classroom services (chalkboard cleaning)
- Offer a catering service for special events.
- Put on a banquet for a community group

Sales

Sales are the staple of ordinary fundraising efforts everywhere. But since you're now thinking "leadership activity," here are several ideas. Here are several ideas you may not have thought of yet.

- Sell donated formal dresses at a Prom Dress Sale
- Sell used/donated books, CDs and video games
- Sell handmade quilts
- Sell concessions at school play or sporting events

- Sell Candy Grams (all holidays)
- Sell candid photos around campus
- Sell Christmas cards
- Sell teddy bears w/rose and balloons
- Sell roses/chocolate for Valentine’s Day (also -- try to get the “rights” for the dance!)
- Host an Orange Crush Day -- Send a can of Orange Crush to a friend with a note “I have a Crush on You”.
- Sell candles, homecoming items, sun visors, beads, headbands, wristbands, pom-poms
- Sell balloons with messages inside
- Sell gift cards (to restaurants, local merchants, etc.)
- Sell discount cards (ones that don’t expire for the entire year)
- Sell space in the organization’s display case to local businesses
- Set up an online store through a company like Peapod Print and sell school apparel

3 Policies & Procedures

When it comes to any financial leadership activity, be creative and have fun! BUT... before you undertake any financial activity...

- Be sure to get approval in advance from the proper authorities. Depending on the type of project and the location, these authorities may include school principals, businesses, city/municipal agencies, churches, etc.
- Be sure to check with your school administration on any school policies or procedures for handling money.
- Make sure to issue receipts for any goods provided to others and have a system to record all transactions.
- Check the local school policies and be sure each activity you undertake falls within the guidelines. It is a good idea to obtain written approval from the principal for any fund-raising activity. As said before, if you can show how your activity emphasizes the leadership component, you're more likely to have your activity approved.

The purpose of student activity funds is to promote the general welfare, education and morale of all the students, and to finance legitimate co-curricular activities of the student organizations. Projects for raising funds should contribute to the educational experience of students and should enhance the instructional program.

Usually, there is a board policy/statement that governs the management and control of student activity funds, and how funds can be generated by students. Make sure you are aware of these policies.

Many schools have a forms for organizers to fill out annually that specify the goal and type of activity, the time it will take, how the money will be collected and the number of students involved. When planning an event, keep in mind that students or staff should never be coerced or compelled to participate in the financial leadership activities. Students may be rewarded for participation, but they should not be penalized because of a refusal to participate.

4 Resources

There are many local, state and national opportunities available for a financial activity -- and you can even develop your own activity around your CTSO.

The following is a partial list of resources that you can use. Their inclusion here does not constitute an endorsement on the part of any CTSO or its parent organization, nor do the CTSOs or their parent organizations receive any profit from any company listed here. Be sure to do your own research and check references before engaging in any activity with a new company.

5 The Law

When it comes to generating funding, CTSO advisors and officers need to be aware of the laws that govern such activities in order to avoid any legal entanglements. What follows is the text of House Bill 1013 which covers fundraising activities.

NOTE: This bill has been prepared for the signature of the appropriate legislative officers and the Governor. To determine whether the Governor has signed the bill or taken other action on it, please consult the legislative status sheet, the legislative history, or the Session Laws.

6 The Law & Local Work

Some student organizations are finding that their efforts may be hindered by laws and statutes. What follows is a story from the Sterling

Advocate from mid 2008 on how one particular group has taken the initiative to ensure that fundraising efforts are not shortchanged.

STERLING — Sterling High School students were instrumental in making sure there will no longer be sales tax for items sold by schools, parent or teacher organizations, booster clubs and other groups whose primary purpose is to support a school activity.

The new law, which will affect concession booths, book sales and other fundraisers, was made possible thanks to a bill created by Rep. Jerry Sonnenberg, (R-Sterling), and students in Jodene Boerner's Accounting I class and Rob Busmente's AP Government class at Sterling High School.

Several of the students who were involved with the bill were able to go to Denver on Wednesday to watch Gov. Bill Ritter sign the bill.

An FBLA fundraiser last school year is what started the idea for the bill. Students found it unfair that parents were being charged sales tax on the items they bought. In doing research on the sales tax requirement for school fundraisers the students found that RE-1 Valley School District is one of only a few that actually follow this law.

According to an analysis by the state Department of Revenue, school groups such as Parent-Teacher Associations, Parent-Teacher Organizations and booster clubs paid a total of about $210,000 in sales tax last year.

“Many schools were following the rules and paying thousands of dollars in sales tax, while others weren't,” Sonnenberg said.

After doing further research and finding that the only way to change the law was to go to the state level, they contacted Sonnenberg and began working on a bill that would eliminate sales tax charges for schools. The bill was introduced to legislators in early January and was sent to the finance committee.

In late January, several students went to the Capitol to testify about the bill in front of the finance committee. They didn't get to talk very much, so in late March five students went back to testify again.

The finance committee voted 6-5 to pass the bill and it was sent to the appropriations committee. On April 14, the house passed the bill on third reading. It was introduced to the Senate on April 16. The bill passed the Senate on third reading on May 2 and was sent back to the House for reconsideration of some amendments that were made. The House passed the bill again on May 5.

With the governor's signature on Wednesday, House Bill 1013 becomes law — an act — on Aug. 6 of this year.

The entire process was a learning experience for the students that not a lot of other students get an opportunity to have.

"It was really cool just to be a part of the process," said Anita Ramey. "We had to do a lot of work to get it to pass, but it's pretty cool."

Now that the bill passed, the next step will be to go to the Sterling City Council to get the city ordinance revoked that requires sales tax on items that schools sell. Next year's accounting class will probably work on this step.

Will they be able to get the City Council on board? Only time will tell.

7 CTSOs: Frequently Asked Questions

Starting July 1, 2009, Career & Technical Student Organization (CTSO) requirements for Career and Technical Education (CTE) Program Approvals will be changing to ensure compliance with state CTA rules and regulations.

After July 1, 2009, all secondary CTE programs in Colorado will be required to have a co-curricular, local student leadership organization to provide leadership training opportunities for their students. These organizations will be encouraged but not required to pursue state and national affiliation.

The Administrator's Handbook which will detail the requirements will be available in the Spring of 2009.

Required documentation may include Chapter Bylaws, a Program of Work, Meeting Agendas and Minutes, and a list of elected officers and current members.

The Colorado Community College System (CCCS) believes co-curricular student organizations are critical as these programs provide 21st Century skill development opportunities to all students.

With that in mind, we have developed a list of frequently asked questions to help you find and implement the best CTSO for your organization.

What is a CTSO?

CTSOs are not maladies or afflictions! CTSO stands for Career and Technical Student Organizations.

CTSOs are an integral part of Career and Technical Education program areas, including, agriculture, business, marketing, family and consumer sciences, health, skilled trades, and technical sciences.

CTSOs assist instructors in developing the leadership, citizenship, technical, critical thinking, and teamwork skills essential to students who are preparing for the workforce and further education. They enhance students' civic awareness and provide opportunities for developing social competencies and a wholesome attitude about living and working.

What do CTSOs do for students?
What do they do for educators?

CTSOs provide opportunities for students to showcase and demonstrate their talents, technical abilities, knowledge and leadership skills inside and outside the classroom.

CTSOs give students well-rounded experiences they can report on job and/or collegiate applications.

For both advisors and students, CTSOs provide opportunities to network with businesspeople, educators and students.

CTSOs offer many opportunities for scholarships and other recognition programs.

CTSOs bring together all types of students from diverse backgrounds to work as a cohesive team; CTSOs teach cooperation, tolerance and teamwork.

CTSOs benefit the communities they are in through local and national community service projects.

What is involved in a CTSO?

Each CTSO varies slightly, but some basics common to all include:

- Organization
 - Each CTSO has a set of bylaws governing the organization
 - Each CTSO has meetings, including agendas and minutes
 - In every CTSO, students find ample opportunities to exercise their communication, leadership and organizational skills
- Community Service
 - Each CTSO has its own way of giving back to the communities in which they are based, such as taking part in Habitat For Humanity or sponsoring events to benefit charities like the American Cancer Society
- Competitive Events
 - Each CTSO has a variety of leadership and skill-based competitive events developed using national standards. Integrating these events (or parts of them) into the classroom curriculum is a win-win for students and instructors.

Do CTSOs really make a difference?

You bet they do!

Students involved in CTSOs have better academic and behavioral outcomes than students in the general population.

Students involved in CTSOs have higher levels of participation in extracurricular activities.

Among CTSO students, extracurricular activity participation was positively associated with grades and educational aspirations; and participation in competitive events positively affected grades and academic engagement.

There are more than 25,000 members in Colorado CTSOs and Colorado students serve on both state and national officer teams, guiding the direction of their respective organizations.

What CTSOs are available to me?

In the next section, you'll find a list of the CTSOs available to you along with contact information for each Colorado state advisor.

Give them a call. You . . . and your students . . . will be glad you did!
